How much does it cost to replace a hybrid battery?

The average cost to replace a hybrid battery can vary quite widely, generally falling within a range of $2,000 to $8,000. This broad range reflects the variability in factors mentioned earlier, such as vehicle model, battery type (new, refurbished, remanufactured), and labor costs.

How much does a Toyota hybrid battery cost?

According to drive.com.au, replacing a Toyota hybrid battery can cost between $2,000 to $8,000, with the latest Camry Hybrid traction battery costing approximately $3280 (excluding GST). If your car is still within warranty, this should cover the cost of the new battery.

Should you replace a Toyota hybrid battery?

On the other hand, if the vehicle is older and requires other major repairs, replacement costs may not be as worthwhile. Replacing a hybrid battery will help restore vehicle performance and fuel efficiency, extend the overall lifespan of the vehicle and increase the resale value, especially with a new or reliable Toyota hybrid battery.

Does a hybrid car warranty cover battery replacement?

Some hybrid vehicle warranties include coverage for battery replacement, which can significantly reduce out-of-pocket costs. If the warranty has expired, customers will need to cover the full hybrid battery replacement cost.
